“With minimalistic interiors that contain natural materials, there is no space that has been spared when it comes to luxury.”

BELOW: Fifty Seven Waterberg offers a five-star safari experience in a malaria-free region. The breathtakingly beautiful lodge is located in a private reserve that is focused on responsible conservation and minimal human impact. To enhance the top-notch safari experience, the lodge recently underwent a revamp in which five suites were added and the common area, which includes the dining area, lounge, additional deck and boma, was upgraded.

ABOVE: Andreas Nicolaas Design is dedicated to creating tailored spaces through innovative style choices. Fifty Seven Waterberg’s unique location was celebrated through design and functionality by merging the existing main building with the beautiful modern guest units – merging the old with the new. Whether designing from the ground up, coordinating with architects and contractors, or refreshing a pre-existing interior with creative inspiration, Andreas Nicolaas approaches each challenge with determination and finesse.

Fifty Seven Waterberg has it all – luxurious interiors, breathtakingly gorgeous views and a relaxed ambience that encourages you to settle down and enjoy nature to its fullest.

Having recently undergone a revamp, Fifty Seven Waterberg stands tall while blending into the natural landscape and bringing the exterior into the interior. To achieve this even further, natural colours, textures and elements were used throughout, resulting in a sense of peace and undisturbed tranquillity.

With minimalistic interiors that contain natural materials, there is no space that has been spared when it comes to luxury. In terms of unique features, one that stands out is the sheltered platform concept, which proves that even with tight deadlines and under difficult circumstances and terrains, architectural mastery can still be achieved.

Other highlights of Fifty Seven Waterberg include its remoteness, making it the ideal place if you’re looking for solace, rest and relaxation for the body, mind and soul. Here you will find your days being accompanied > by the daily soundtrack of bird and animal sounds, in an unspoilt environment that also happens to be home to the Big Five.

The exterior is also unobtrusive and inspired by the horizontal lines of the Waterberg Mountains, and this creates a sense of elevation and further impacts the feeling of being part of nature.

If the majestic outdoors is not enough to get you hooked, just one look around the inside is guaranteed to make you feel like you have entered a space where beauty, comfort and luxury reign supreme. Modern with African elements for warmth, all the interior spaces have been created to enhance a sense of charming indulgence.

Fifty Seven Waterberg leaves guests wanting for nothing. So while you relax in the solar-heated plunge pools, remember to take a look around and let nature amaze you while you take in the openness that frames this landscape like a masterpiece. 🏡
